CITY SERVICES FOR TO-MORROW

Richmond Pastors Select Interesting Subjects for Discussion To-morrow.

THIRTY-THIRD ANNIVERSARY

Rev. Dr. J. B. Hutson to Have Notable Service at Pine Street Church.

The services at Pine Street Baptist Church to-morrow will be of peculiar interest, it being the thirty-third anniversary of the Rev. J. B. Hutson's, D. D., pastorate.

In the morning the pastor will preach on "The Good Hand of God Upon Us," the text being taken from Ezra VIII, 18. At this service the new pipe organ, which has been recently installed will be publicly used for the first time. All who have heard the instrument pronounce it correct and remarkably sweet in tone.

In the evening at eight o'clock a thanksgiving service will be held, the pastor preaching from Psalms LXXV, 1, "Unto Thee, O God, Do We Give Thanks, Unto Thee Do We Give Thanks."

The church will be for the first time illuminated with electric lights. Special music will be a feature of both the services. A large chorus choir, under the direction of Mr. L. C. Minor, leading the singing. In the evening a thanksgiving offering will be made, which, it is believed, will fully pay off the indebtedness of the church. All the members of the church have been urged to attend both the morning and evening worship. Arrangements have been made to seat as many people as possible, and the church will be made to accommodate more than on any previous available space except the aisles.

Outnumbers All.

Thirty-three years ago when Dr. Hutson came to the pastorate, there was a membership of only 17 and they were making a desperate struggle for their little church. Since that time the membership has increased to over 1,000, a showing that is not only the largest of any church of any denomination in the South, but a large, commodious and well-lighted house of worship has been built, and the church debt almost entirely paid off.

The phenomenal success of this people is shown in the fact that the average attendance of which is about 800. At the rally several Sundays ago, however, there were present 1,608 persons by actual count. This is by long odds the largest Sunday school in the South.

The congregation of this church, though so large, is perfectly harmonious, and the pastor lives in the hearts of his people. The statistics for the thirty-three years have not yet been drawn up, but the pastor will read a full report at the Sunday morning service.

At the First Unitarian Church, services will be held to-morrow morning at 11 o'clock, subject of the sermon: "The Unpopularity of Human Nature." Rev. John L. Robinson, pastor.

The Rev. Ryland Knight, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, corner Grace and Pine Streets, will preach at 11 A. M. and 8 P. M. To-morrow. At 11 A. M. the subject will be "The Bible and the Ballot Box." In the evening on "A Hope and Its Results."

The Rev. Henry Pearce Atkins will preach morning and night to-morrow at West End Christian Church. His morning subject will be "Christ the Power of God." The theme at night will be "Payments on Account."

Services will be held at the Third Christian Church to-morrow at 11 A. M. and 8 P. M. Preaching by the pastor, who will take for his subject at the morning service "Are the Demands of God Reasonable?" At night, by special request, he will speak on "Why I Am a Disciple of Christ." Baptism at night. Owing to a severe cold, the pastor had to close the revival services Thursday night. He is doctoring himself up for the Sunday services, which he hopes to be able to conduct.

Services at Clay Street Methodist Church to-morrow will be held at 11 A. M. and 8 P. M. Rev. T. McN. Simpson, pastor, will preach morning and night.

Park Place Methodist Church, preaching by the pastor, Rev. L. H. Berry, 11 A. M. subject: "A Noble Tribute." 8 P. M., subject: "A Commendable Record." Services are held in the lecture room.

The pastor, Dr. Young, will preach at both services to-morrow at Centenary Church. Morning subject: "The Personal Element in the Christian Faith." Evening subject: "The Religion of Jesus and the Healing of the Body."

The regular services will be held at Randolph Street Baptist Church to-morrow, with preaching by Rev. G. F.

Williams at 11 A. M. and Rev. H. M. Bowling at 8 P. M. The Willing Helpers will meet at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

Interesting services will be held in St. James Methodist Church, Twenty-ninth and Marshall Streets, to-morrow morning at 11 o'clock and evening at 8 o'clock. As this is the last Sunday before the pastor goes to conference, it is hoped that all the members especially will be present. Rev. W. A. Cooper will review the work of the past year, and administer the sacrament of the Lord's Supper at the morning service. At night he will preach on the annual conference.

Christian Science Lecture.

On Sunday Afternoon, November 12th, Mrs. Sue Harper Mims, C. D., will deliver a lecture on Christian Science at the Academy of Music.

Mrs. Mims is the wife of Major Livingston Mims, ex-mayor of Atlanta, Ga., and belongs to an old and distinguished family of Scotch ancestry. She has been a conspicuous factor in Southern life; has always stood for idealism, and has attracted to her home the most eminent, distinguished and brilliant people of the section. She has been a frequent contributor to the public press on ethical and literary subjects.

About twenty years ago she was healed of chronic invalidism of many years standing through Christian Science, and leaving the old routine, she consecrated her life unreservedly to the cause of Christian Science, becoming a student and devoted follower of Mrs. Eddy.

Real Estate Sales.

Messrs. J. Thompson Brown & Company sold at auction the large brick dwelling, No. 30 West Clay Street, to Miss Annie Hansen and E. A. Lange, for $10,000.

The dwelling is a large, old-fashioned double brick structure, and was built by the late Peter V. Jensen for his home. Its good preservation to-day attests the substantial character of its construction.

At 4 o'clock this afternoon C. L. & H. L. Denon will sell at auction the desirable brick residence, No. 62 North Third Street. This sale was postponed from Thursday.

Poll Books Ready.

The poll books and stationery required by the election officers are ready for delivery to them by the clerk of the Hustings Court and will be delivered on application any time to-day or Monday. It would be better if the poll-holders, clerks and judges should supply themselves with these necessary articles to-day.

At the Library.

Among the callers at the State Library yesterday were Major John J. Cowan, of Montgomery, and Mr. George Mason, of Petersburg.

To Have Open Shop.

The electrical contractors of this city met yesterday and decided to have "open" shop in their business hereafter. The vote by which the plan was adopted was unanimous.

Wanted for Murder.

Governor Montague has honored a requisition from the Governor of Kentucky for seven men now in jail in Buchanan county, Va., and who are wanted for alleged murder in Pike county, Ky.

Reception to Students.

Students of the Virginia Union University and Hartshorn College were given a reception last night by the Second Baptist Church. A program of music and recitations was rendered and refreshments were served.

ALBEMARLE CLUB TO BE BIG SUCCESS

Prominent Local Democrats to Have Social Organization On Franklin Street.

The long talked of central Democratic organization for this city is now a reality, prominent local party leaders having secured the charter of the old Albemarle Club, rented the building No. 81 East Franklin Street, and secured about one hundred and fifty pledges of membership.

It is believed that the club will be a success from the start, as those behind it are not only men of good business capacity, but are also men of high character. It will be a political organization, with a social side, and applications for membership are being daily signed. The charter members will meet early next week for organization. It is not known yet who will be president or in whose charge the management will be placed. Mr. Watson M. Myers, who has been mentioned for the place, said last night that he could not consider the proposition for a moment, that while he would be a member and join heartily in the work, yet his business engagements were such as to absolutely prevent his accepting any official position.

Mr. Anthony Griffith, who has been suggested as the probable manager, likewise declared that he could not serve, and that no officers had yet been settled upon.

When the meeting of the stockholders or charter members shall be held, a board of managers will be chosen, along with other officers, and then the work of electing members will begin.

Much of the furniture has been placed in the building, and all the rooms are being overhauled and repaired. The club will have a bar attached, and all the comforts and conveniences of a twentieth century social organization.

NEW IMMANUEL TO BE DEDICATED

Attractive Church at Fifth and Leigh to Be Formally Opened To-morrow.

WILL BE DAY OF INTEREST

Three Impressive Services With the Dedication in the Afternoon.

The pretty and commodious church just completed at Leigh and Fifth Streets by the Immanuel Baptist congregation will be dedicated to-morrow.

The day will be one of great rejoicing with the Immanuel people, and are of special interest to the friends of this useful and growing church. The services will be simple but impressive. Rev. Dr. William E. Hatcher will preach at 11 o'clock; Rev. George W. McDaniel, pastor.

The striking printers commenced their contest against the Richmond Typothetae before Judge Grinnam in the Chancery Court yesterday morning. The printers turned out in numbers to hear and see the proceedings. Seventy-five or more were seated in the courtroom when Judge Grinnam took his seat at 11 o'clock. There were two dozen or more other spectators, including several members of the Typothetae.

DEMURER TO THE INJUNCTION

Case Not Completed Yesterday and Will Hardly Be Finished To-day.

The printers turned out in numbers to hear and see the proceedings. Seventy-five or more were seated in the courtroom when Judge Grinnam took his seat at 11 o'clock. The Gans-Rady Company Offers to-day a Special Line of High Class and Exclusive Cravenette Rain-coats in Oversack and Paddock styles at very moderate prices.

Mr. Lamb read the bill of the plaintiffs paragraph by paragraph and read with them the answers of the respondents to each paragraph.

Mr. Lamb argued at some length that the extraordinary process of injunction convert it into an illegal act, to be headed off by the extraordinary process of injunction.

meddling, as set forth in the plaintiffs' bill. Mr. Lamb laid down the principle in law that if a legal act is done in a legal way, blackness of motive cannot convert it into an illegal act, to be headed off by the extraordinary process of injunction.

The Affidavits.

He then took up the affidavits, filed to sustain the plaintiffs' bill, and contended that they were vague and indefinite, setting forth in most cases that "they" did so and so. They may have been union men or may not. The affidavits should be more specific and call names. He read a number of affidavits, denying that force, coercion or intimidation had been the weapon of the union men. These were signed by E. W. Bayle, W. P. Mitchell, G. W. Schiefel, J. O. Stewart, John E. Burnett, M. H. Dece, Walter T. Booth, W. C. Booth, David Wilson, A. B. McCullough, J. B. Ride-nour.

He argued the affidavits as he went along. All of this was merely preliminary skirmishing. Mr. Lamb did not get down to the real argument until the afternoon session of the court, when he spoke about an hour, elaborating the points made in the morning.

New Affidavits.

The plaintiffs then submitted new affidavits to prove the allegations in their bill, which were read by Mr. Waddey. One of them, a very lengthy one, gave the correspondence in full between the Everett Waddey Company and the Laitson Monotype Co., of Philadelphia.

This was done to show that upon application of the Richmond Typothetae, the Philadelphia Union had threatened the Monotype people with a boycott if they took into their training school persons sent there by the Everett Waddey Company to learn how to manage the Monotype machines. Mr. Lamb objected to the introduction of this affidavit by Mr. Waddey, as its matter was principally as to what happened in Philadelphia.

The court took the objection under advisement, but heard the document read all through. At the conclusion of the reading of the new affidavits the court took a recess to to-day, setting the hour of meeting at 12 o'clock, so as to give counsel time to reply to the new matter. Mr. Wydhm Meredith, who represents the plaintiffs, will follow Mr. Lamb to-day, and Mr. Wendenburg will close for the respondents, but may not finish to-day.

The Union's Side.

The answer of the striking printers to the bill of the Typothetae is too long to be printed in its entirety, but the following is a full synopsis of its main contents:

1. That they believe the allegations in paragraph No. 1 of said bill are true, except that they do not believe that the purpose of the Richmond Typothetae is to advance and protect the interests of the printing trade and business in said city; but they believe and therefore charge that its main purpose is to advance and protect their own private interests by uniting their strength, and thus hoping they may destroy the united strength of their employers; and to this end they have a national association or union of their own, known as "The United Typothetae of America," of which Richmond Typothetae is a branch, and is bound by its laws and resolutions.

2. That the allegations in paragraph No. 2 of said bill are true.

3. That the allegations in paragraph No. 3 of said bill are true.

4. That the allegations in paragraph No. 4 of said bill are true.

5. That these respondents deny that there is any implied agreement between the Richmond Typographical Union, No. 99, and the complainants, that the working hours in the printing trade were to be nine hours a day until the 1st day of January, 1906; and they deny that such an agreement was made by the officers of the International Typographical Union and the officers of the United Typothetae of America at a conference held at Syracuse, N. Y., in 1898. These respondents deny that the complainants say in writing whether they would then agree that the working day should be eight hours on and after January 1, 1906, but this was not in bad faith, and these respondents deny that this was one of the reasons why the said complainants refused to accede to said demand. These respondents say that the effort for an eight hour day has been going on for three years.

Both organizations took a positive stand on this question (the eight hour day) in 1904, and the struggle then began.

The National Fight.

When the Typographical Union refused to reconsider its action, the United Typothetae of America thereupon met in Niagara Falls on September 7, 1905, and again refused to consider any agreement leading to the eight-hour day, although the said Eight-Hour Committee made another effort in writing to adjust the question. Thereupon all unions were notified by wire that the opportune time had arrived to make demand for the eight-hour day. Even at this time the said complainants were rushing their work ahead so as to be in a position to meet a strike, which had not then been declared, and they then knew what their answer would be to any demand made for an eight-hour day, and did not need any time in which to give their answer. So far as the complainants were concerned, they could have given their answer in six months, for each and every one of them knew what their answer would be. They had already decided what their answer would be, and were only "playing for time," and were rushing the work they had on hand, so as to be in a better position to meet the strike which they well knew was inevitable, and would certainly come as a result of the action of the National Typothetae at its meeting in Niagara Falls on September 7, 1905.

6. That the allegations in paragraph six of said bill are true.

7. That respondents deny that they have unlawfully interfered with any of the men employed by the complainants, or any of them, and the demand of the R. T. U., No. 99, through its officers or members, have sought to annoy, interfere with, hinder, entice away, purchase, bribe, or by any unlawful means, drive from the employment of said complainants, or any of them, the present employees engaged by them, or any of them, in connection with the said bill.

The Wilde Allegation.

Paragraphs 8, 9, 10 and 12 are simply declared untrue, but when 12 is reached the printers are emphatic, and they give the following as their version of the Wilde affair:

It is denied that William Wilde was threatened, abused or insulted, as set forth in said paragraph of said bill, but the facts were these: That the said William Wilde was met by J. O. Stewart, a member of said union, for the purpose of ascertaining whether he was a member of any union, and also for the purpose of persuading him to become a member of this union. In this conversation with said Stewart, the said William Wilde asserted that he desired to return to his home in England, and that this was his sole purpose in coming here to work, so as to earn sufficient money to pay his debts, and he proposed to go home at once if this union would let him have sufficient money, and when asked by Mr. Stewart how much he wanted, he finally said he required $140, and thereupon Mr. Stewart informed him that he had no authority to accept such a proposition, but that he would introduce the said William Wilde to the committee representing said union, known as the Eight-Hour Committee, which was done; that, subsequently, said William Wilde went to Murphy's Hotel to see the committee in reference to this proposition. The said committee members were very loath to accept his proposition, and tried to persuade the said Wilde to alter his proposition and join the R. T. U., No. 99.

Said Wilde, however, insisted that his original proposition should be carried out, that it was necessary for him to have about 20 pounds when he arrived in England to pay some debts, and, therefore, he could not do home with less than his original proposition, which the committee then accepted and paid him the money. Demanded by him, and thereupon the said Wilde pretended that he was going back to England, and in furtherance of this false pretense, and to give credence to same, he purchased a ticket to New York and had his baggage sent to the depot with a full knowledge that the said ticket was a consignment connected between him and certain members representing the complainants, who were then armed with a capias ad respondentum for the purpose of arresting him and apparently stopping his trip to England. Upon his return to charge under said capias by the sheriff and was bailed, with one of his complainants as his surety, and he was taken to the home of one of the complainants, where he was held for some time. Next night one of these respondents, E. W. Blakey, who had paid the $100 to said Wilde, called at the boarding house of the said Wilde for the sole purpose of finding out from him whether or not he was honest in his transaction, or had been deceived. He found him to be honest, and said to Wilde that he had given the $100 under a promise, and wanted to know whether Wilde intended to carry out his promise. Wilde replied that his wages had been increased and that he had a large sum of money, and he wanted more if he wanted him to carry out his promise.

Mr. Blakey then fully realized that the said Wilde had gotten this money under false pretence, and demanded the return of the $100, which Wilde declined to do. Mr. Blakey then told Wilde that he intended to prosecute him for making money under false pretences, which would have been done, but the said Wilde, conscious of his guilt, has left the State of Virginia, as these respondents are informed, and his whereabouts unknown to them.

These respondents admit that it was very natural that Mr. Blakey should have gotten angry under the circumstances, and that he had been defrauded out of $100 under a false pretense, and that in addition thereto, the said Wilde attempted to get $150 more under a similar circumstance. These respondents assert that Mr. Blakey did not get angry with Mr. Wilde because he was working for one of the complainants, but because of his nefarious conduct in defrauding him out of $100, as above set forth.

These respondents allege that this was a result of conspiracy on the part of the said Wilde and certain of the complainants as the representatives of the Richmond Typothetae, and these respondents especially call the court's attention to the fact, that the only overt act made by them, to the said Wilde was to become a member of their union, while all other propositions that the said Wilde should pay money came from him (Wilde), as will more fully appear by a sworn certificate signed by the said Wilde and filed with the affidavit of E. W. Blakey.

Other Paragraphs.

Paragraph 13 is simply denied, and the others are answered as follows:

14. In answer to the allegation of paragraph 14 of said bill, these respondents say they admit that, by argument and persuasion only, they have attempted to get certain members of their union, but they emphatically deny that they have used any illegal or unlawful methods.

15. These respondents deny the allegations set forth in paragraph 15 of said bill, and say the same are untrue.

16. (Omitted from the bill).

17. These respondents deny the allegations set forth in paragraph 17 of said bill, and say the same are not true.

These respondents further answer to said bill, but the answer, while pertinent, is not important.

These respondents deny that a compliance with the demand for an eight hour day will destroy the business of the complainants or seriously affect the same.

Target Practice.

Colonel George Wayne Anderson has directed the captains of the Seventeenth Regiment to assemble their respective companies on their drill nights next week for target practice. The company making the largest score will be given a prize.

IMMANUEL BAPTIST CHURCH.

tor of the First Church, from which Immanuel went, out as a mission, will preach the dedicatory sermon in the afternoon; Rev. W. C. Taylor, pastor of the First Church of Petersburg, will supply the pulpit at night, and Rev. Dr. R. H. Pitt will bring greeting from the Baptist Brotherhood. Rev. Dr. J. B. Hawthorne had been expected to preach the night sermon but is prevented by sickness and Dr. Taylor has very kindly consented to take his place. Dr. Taylor is a fine preacher and there is a treat in store for those who hear him. The music to-morrow will be especially good. Special programmes have been arranged by the Immanuel choir and the First Church choir will take part in the afternoon programme.

The new church is a modern, convenient and attractive edifice, built of brick and with basement. The auditorium is an especially pretty one, with high ceiling, finished in natural wood. There are scores of electric lights with two hand-stands, and the church is handsomely furnished in quarter-sawn oak, carpeted and nicely furnished in all respects. Captain M. J. Dimmock was the architect, and Mr. James Fax, the general contractor.

Immanuel church is the outgrowth of a mission begun on Fourth Street nearly thirty years ago. This started as an afternoon Sunday-school. Young men from Richmond College, leaders of the neighborhood and members of the Young Men's Missionary Society of the First Baptist Church were active in the work in its earlier days. The mission grew steadily, and the Fourth Street Baptist Church was organized March 20, 1890. The church moved to the more desirable site at Fifth and Leigh in October, 1894, and claimed its name to Immanuel. The cornerstone of the present building was laid September 20, 1903, and the first service was held on June 5, 1904.

The church has had five pastors—Rev. H. F. Williams, Rev. James Nelson, D. D., Rev. J. R. Harrison, Rev. David A. Solly and Rev. Eugene M. Starnes. Standing at the head of the church the first of this year, and the work has prospered and broadened under his leadership. He is an exceptional strong, earnest, preacher and a faithful and sympathetic pastor. Dr. Nelson, who is loved by all the Immanuel people, will offer the dedicatory prayer to-morrow afternoon.
